

Water Resource/Drainage Engineer, Draper, Utah 0 to 5 Years of Experience

JOB DESCRIPTION

Bowen Collins & Associates is a civil and environmental engineering firm specializing in providing water and wastewater relating consulting services to clients in the intermountain west. As a water resources engineer, you will work with and under the direction of other engineers and environmental scientists to plan, design, and oversee construction on projects including components of water resources planning, water and wastewater treatment, water transmission, sewer collection, stormwater drainage, flood control, groundwater management, and/or environmental services.

JOB TYPE: Full-time

EDUCATION: Bachelor's or master's degree in Civil or Environmental Engineering

SKILLS/QUALIFICATIONS:

- 0 to 5 years of experience for entry level position
- Understanding of water resources, hydraulics, and hydrology
- Ability to work on multiple projects simultaneously in a fast-paced environment, strong attention to detail, and strong written and oral communication skills
- Capable of working efficiently with clients, contractors, regulatory agencies, and internal staff
- Proficiency with Microsoft Office

PREFERRED SKILLS/QUALIFICATIONS:

- Engineer in Training (EIT)
- Experience with hydraulic and hydrologic computer modeling programs
- Experience with client marketing efforts and proposal development
- Experience with AutoCAD and/or Microstation preferred
- Experience with GIS software preferred

BENEFITS OFFERED:

- Paid time off
- Health and dental insurance
- Healthcare spending or reimbursement accounts such as HSAs or FSAs
- Life insurance and disability insurance
- Generous 401K retirement plan
- Opportunities for growth and future ownership

METHOD TO APPLY:

Resume with cover letter to: Email jobs@bowencollins.com